

Leadership Philosophy of David L. Myers, PhD

Across academia, leaders often experience varying degrees of success, failure, or something in-between. Although many factors can influence leadership effectiveness, I believe a clearly communicated leadership philosophy and consistent leadership behavior are essential for creating a positive and productive work environment. I have had the opportunity and good fortune to both serve in various positions of leadership and observe many others in these types of roles. Based on my experience, observations, study, and reflection, I believe effective leadership requires strong values and beliefs; positive attitudes; clear expectations; a commitment to an o vision, mission, values, goals, and objectives; and caring for other people.

Solid leadership originates with strong values and beliefs.
